Don Biron to join Milliman's health and group benefit business

New hire adds to Milliman's team of independent experts on private health exchange strategies

Seattle — August 31, 2016 — Milliman, a premier global consulting and actuarial firm, today announced that it has hired Don Biron as a senior health and group benefit consultant. Don will add to Milliman's impressive roster of health and group benefit consultants, with a focus on private health exchange strategies. Don's experience in exchange sourcing should be of particular value to employer clients contemplating a private exchange strategy.

Don was most recently with Information Services Group (ISG) where he focused on helping clients improve their employee benefits delivery, including healthcare exchange advisory services.

"Milliman has a reputation as the leading independent voice on the topic of private healthcare exchanges, and I'm excited to join this winning team," says Don Biron.

Jeff Budin, Employee Benefits global practice leader, says, "We're thrilled that Milliman's leading health and group benefits business attracts top talent like Don. His reputation for objectivity and strategic thinking in the large-market employer space make him a natural fit for Milliman."
